

A photograph of a concrete sidewalk. In the upper left, a portion of a blue metal slatted bench is visible. The sidewalk is composed of several slabs separated by expansion joints. One joint runs diagonally from the bottom left towards the top right. Another joint runs horizontally across the middle of the frame. In the bottom right corner, there is a square metal utility cover with a diamond-plate pattern. Handwritten in black marker on the concrete is the text "Thrift between Johnston's George".
