Hello,

I am a long time resident of White Rock and the reason that I was attracted to the area was that it had the look of a beautiful seaside village.

Over the years it has changed and I am not against change but this beautiful seaside village is now becoming a group of skyscrapers. We do not have the means of comfortably servicing these huge places. Roads are even now too congested and our water supply will soon be to a max through our old pipes. When the charm of this place goes so does our real estate and tourism .

I definitely am against any building of 29 stories. The most I feel comfortable with , if it is deemed necessary to have these structures built is 12 stories.
